Dear (Teacher's or class's name)

I hope this finds you well.

We've been appointed by the Council to do what they judge to be a very important piece of work looking at some land on the periphery of the town of Port Talbot

The Tourism Manager and her team are concerned about this land. The Council understands that it needs protection from vandalism, which is happening there at the moment, and also the threat of destroying the sites of value.

From reports from the local community, they feel that the land holds secrets that could be revealed and used to help save it things that may harm it. They are keen to find out what these things are.

The Council has told us that the Mountain has potential for tourism, which would be very helpful for the community of Port Talbot in a time when this could be very helpful for many people.

We are contacting people in the area who may be able to help us with this, because of particular insights that they might have into the history and people of the area of land.

We're hoping we will be able to have a chat with you - as some people who have their finger on the pulse and can tell us a bit about what may be there, and point us to anything that may help us.

The land in question is called Mynydd Dinas (Mountain of the Settlement in English); I attach a video we made recently, which explains what we know so far, and a map, with some of the buildings we suspect may be there. I hope this helps, with what has proved for us a difficult and challenging task.

MYSTERIOUS AFAN CUDD

Let me know when might suit for a Teams/Zoom. I'm in your area on dates as required so, depending on the time, something in person might be possible also.

All best wishes
